British Leave Changsha With

SHANGHAI, March 29. (P)—Alarm at the growth of antiforeign agitation in Nationalist China has spread northward to districts threatened by the Cantonese advance and refugees, most of them Americans, are moving out of Southern Shantung, Anhwei and Southern Honan Provinces.

Advices from Chefoo in Shantung say that all the American missionaries in Eastern Shantung are on their way either to Tientsin, which is on the southeastern coast, or to that city. Their exodus was caused by the uncertain future of the Province and the events of the past week at Nanking and other Nationalist-controlled cities. A Japanese destroyer arrived at Chefoo Sunday and the American consul there has asked for a United States destroyer.

The local Chinese commissioner at Changsha, on the Ssang-Hiang in Hunan Province, after a slight encounter between a number of Chinese and a party from the British gunboat Woodcock, today demanded withdrawal of the British warship at that Nationalist-controlled city.

SURRENDER DEMANDED
The commissioner demanded also that the British sailors involved in the clash be turned over to the Chinese authorities in order that "drastic action" might be taken against them. When extraterritorial rights further were withdrawn from all Britishers in Changsha, the British authorities ordered the evacuation of their nationals from that city.

The Japanese consul, who arrived today from Nanking, where he had a narrow escape from death last week, said that armed women Communists led the Japanese consulate. The consul agreed with other reports made here by refugees that the looting and outrages were carried on systematically with the apparent object of inflaming antiforeign feelings.

While additional refugees from various sections of Central China, including Hankow, continued to flock today to Shanghai and the coast, seeking safety from the antiforeign campaign, the defense of the foreign settlement in the Shanghai was further co-ordinated today.

MEETS JAPANESE
Major Gen. John Duncan, commander of the British defense force, visited Capt. Uyematsu, commander of the Japanese marine force, and discussed the general situation as to defense of the international zones.

Subsequently, Major Gen. Duncan conveyed to the authorities British sympathy on the attempted suicide of Lieut. Kameo Araki, who was in command of the guard at the Japanese consulate at Nanking at the time of the outrage there last Thursday.

Lieut. Araki, who is in a grave condition, sought to kill himself aboard the Japanese flagship Totsu this morning after reporting details of the attacking of the consulate. Apparently he was weighed down by a sense of responsibility for the events there, although it was stated that he had held the fire of his force of seven sailors only because he feared shooting.

SKIBBEREEN (Ireland)
March 29. (P)—Forty coffins were among the gifts to a young woman here in a seven years' courtship.

A coffin on her birthday, a coffin for Christmas, and so forth whenever a joyous occasion occurred. Finally she broke off the engagement and the man wanted his coffins back, so he brought suit for breach of promise.

It turned out that the girl's father had sold the coffins, which were valued at $56. The suit, told the judge he made the coffin himself and thought the girl would appreciate them.

The evacuation of Hankow by foreigners is proceeding rapidly. Today the steamer Suwo arrived here with 283 refugees, all but one of whom were American.

Most of them were members of the Scandinavian-American mission from the interior. The American consul in Hankow today said, number 139, including thirty women and seventeen children.

With the situation in Hankow described as disturbing, 350 Americans left the city between Thursday and Sunday, most of them coming from the interior. Those remaining will be evacuated as soon as possible.

Reports from Peking say that all the American members of the staff of Peking Union Medical College, alarmed by the Nanking incident, are planning to leave the city immediately. The police in Peking, which is the capital of the northern government, are actively engaged in a hunt for Nationalist agitators there.

RUSSIAN PAPER
FLAYS AMERICA'S PART

MOSCOW, March 29. (P)—Fravda, newspaper of the Russian Communist party, today declared that "American participation in the war upon China has been cemented by the blood of thousands of victims" of the Nanking bombardment.

British imperialism, hitherto doubtful about the American attitude, now feels safe in going ahead with plans for a gigantic war program, the paper says.

After quoting extracts from several American newspapers, Fravda adds:

"The anxiety evidenced by the American press resembles the panic of a child who has committed his first murder. After playing a leading part in the slaughter, the United States now tries to resume sheep's clothing, but the Shanghai workers will quickly see through the subterfuge."

MISTREATMENT OF JAPANESE RECOUNTED

OSAKA (Japan) March 29. (P)—A graphic description of the mistreatment of Japanese prisoners, published by the Asahi Shimbun in a two-page dispatch from that city, has caused a sensation here.

The Asahi correspondent relates that last Thursday morning he was awakened by bullets pattering through the window pane of his room in the Hori-Kwan Hotel in Nanking. Shortly afterward more than forty Chinese soldiers invaded the hotel and robbed him of his belongings.

The looters tried to snatch a ring from the hand of a maid at the hotel, the dispatch continues, but found it tight, so they tried to cut off the finger. They threatened to shoot all Japanese guests of the hotel but were restrained when a superior officer arrived.

The correspondent continues that he went to the Japanese consulate, where he saw more looting in which many Americans were stripped of all their clothing. More than 100 Chinese soldiers swarmed into the consulate and attacked the staff with bayonets and finally killed Maj. Nemoto and threw the body out of a window.

Exeter Chicken Plays Double Role of Cantankerous and Taming Hen

EXETER, March 29. (P)—"Cock-a-doodle - cluck-cluck," might well be the war cry of a double-duty Rhode Island Red fowl which calls a chicken yard in the rear of the Bud Hawkins place in Exeter its home.

The bird, with a comb and tail midway between those of a rooster and hen, is acquiring a reputation of being a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

For a while the rooster-hen steps grandly about the yard, making "his" flock behave. Then, changing "his" make-up, "she" moves stealthily into a nest, lays an egg, cackles, and emerges to resume the role of lord and master of the flock. Hawkins calls it his "double-duty" bird.

WHY YOU SHOULD DRINK MORE TEA

by Sir Charles Higham

THERE is nothing quite so delicious or refreshing as a cup of good tea. It stimulates the brain as nothing else can do. Try afternoon tea as an innovation in your home. Watch the effect on your guests. It promotes pleasant conversation. It strengthens your friendships. The Afternoon Tea habit is now general throughout the civilized world.

How to make Tea
Be sure you use India Tea or a blend containing India Tea and make it in the correct way—as it is served in England. Use an earthenware teapot. Put into it one teaspoonful of India Tea for each cup of tea required. Be sure the water is poured into the teapot the moment it boils. Allow to stand for 5 minutes to infuse. Put a little milk or cream into each cup before serving the tea. It greatly improves the flavour. Then add sugar to taste.

Your retailer or store can supply you with India Tea or blends containing India Tea. He has no difficulty in getting it as practically every wholesale distributor of tea in this district supplies India Tea.

RESERVE FORCE ISSUE DEBATED

Arms Body Given America's Point of View

Plan Declared Handicap to United States

Compromise Suggested by Delegate Gibson

(Copyright, 1927, New York World)

GENEVA, March 29. (Exclusive)—The disarmament conference preparatory commission's tentative decision not to include reserves as aggressive forces would mean that with some nations nine-tenths of their land military strength would be removed from the sphere of limitation. Hugh S. Gibson, delegate of the United States, said today in a presentation of his government's viewpoint.

He declared reserves to be the crux of the entire question of land disarmament, as some nations with large reserves could mobilize such forces into offensive units within two weeks and thereby quickly multiply their nominal power by nine or ten while other nations were fighting.

Proposing a compromise plan, Gibson said that actual fighting units should be limited and that reserve strength could be made public for later consideration.

While France's viewpoint, which does not include reserves in the limitations picture, prevailed yesterday when, Viscount Cecil of Great Britain, leader of the opposing viewpoint, begrudgingly yielded the point, President Loucheur of the commission announced today the matter was open for further consideration.

Speaking of the treaty which is expected to come as the finished product from the commission's conference after the agenda have been prepared by the commission, Gibson voiced this hope that it would be written in the comprehensible to the man in the street. He spoke specifically of American public opinion, which he wants to be able to visualize the reserve forces of all nations when the treaty is presented to the United States Senate for ratification.

Today's session was forced to adjourn prematurely when Signor Marinis, delegate from Italy, insisted upon delay to allow him to consult experts on the subject of colonial forces, which occupied the commission's attention since from Gibson's observations on land limitations.

According to authoritative information, Marinis' intention is first to obtain private instead of public sessions on the subject of colonial forces, after which he will propose adjournment until some time in the future. His principal fear on the reserve issue is that Russia's blackshirts will be defined as reserve forces. He expects to maintain that they are under no legal obligation to serve until they are actually called up.

THE DIAMOND of KALI

By O. HENRY

GEN. MARCELLUS B. LUDLOW lives in one of those decaying but venerable old red-brick mansions in the West Twenties. The general is a member of an old New York family that does not advance. He is a globe-trotter by birth, a gentleman by predilection, a millionaire by the mercy of Heaven, and a connoisseur of precious stones by occupation.

The reporter was admitted promptly when he made himself known at the general's residence at about eight thirty on the evening that he received the assignment.

"Ah," said the general, "you have heard of my latest find. I shall be glad to show you what I conceive to be one of the six most valuable blue diamonds in existence."

"The Phantasgar, or Thugs, of India," began the general, "are the most dangerous and dreaded of the tribes of North India. They are extremists in religion and worship the horrid goddess Kali in the form of images. Their rites are interesting and bloody. The robbing and murdering of travelers are taught as a worthy and obligatory deed by their strange religious code. Their worship of the three-eyed goddess Kali is conducted so secretly that no traveler has ever heretofore had the honor of witnessing the ceremonies. That distinction was reserved for myself."

"While at Sakarapur, between Delhi and Khat, I used to explore the jungle in every direction in the hope of learning something new about these mysterious Phantasgars."

"One evening at twilight I was making my way through a teakwood forest when I came upon a deep circular depression in an open space, in the center of which was a rude stone temple. I was sure that this was one of the temples of the Thugs. I concealed myself in the undergrowth to watch."

"When the moon rose the depression in the clearing was suddenly filled with hundreds of shadowy, swiftly gliding forms. Then a door opened, and a brilliantly illuminated image of the goddess Kali, before which a white-robed priest began a barbarous incantation. While the tribe of worshippers prostrated themselves upon the earth."

"But what interested me most was the central eye of the huge wooden idol. I could see its flashing brilliancy that it was an immense diamond of the purest water."

"After the rites were concluded the Thugs slipped away into the forest as silently as they had come. The priest stood for a few minutes in the door of the temple enjoying the cool of the night breeze. I slipped out of my hiding place and slipped down into the hollow. I heard the priest utter a word and then he turned and struck him down with a glittering knife. Then the murderer sprang at the image of the goddess Kali and gripped out the glowing central eye of Kali with his weapon. Straight toward me he ran with his royal prize. When he was within two paces I rose to my feet and struck him with all my force between the eyes. He fell over senseless and the magnificent jewel fell into my hand. That is the splendid blue diamond you have just seen—a stone worthy of its name in their eyes."

"What I am afraid of now is that I may be robbed of the diamond. The jewel that formed an eye of their goddess is their most sacred symbol. Somehow the tribe suspected me of having it; and members of the band have followed me half around the earth. They are the most cunning and cruel fanatics in the world, and their religious vows would compel them to assassinate the unbeliever who has desecrated their sacred treasure."

"Once in Lucknow three of their agents, disguised as servants in a hotel, endeavored to strangle me with a twisted cloth. Again, in London, two Thugs met me on a street and, climbing into my window at night and attacked me. They have even tracked me to this country. My life is never safe. A month ago, while I was at a hotel in the Berkshires, three of them sprang upon me from the roadside and I saved myself then by my knowledge of their customs."

"How was that, general?" asked the reporter.

"There was a cow grazing near by," said Gen. Ludlow, "a gentle Jersey cow. I ran to her side and stood by her. The Thugs ceased their attack, knelt and struck the ground thrice with their foreheads. Then, after many respectful salutes, they departed."

"Afraid the cow would hook?" asked the reporter.

"No, the cow is a sacred animal to the Phantasgars. Next to their goddess they worship the cow. They have never been known to commit any deed of violence in the presence of the animal they reverence."

"If I were you," advised the reporter, "I'd take that sparkler to Texas. Get on a cow ranch there, and the Phantasgars—"

"Phantasgars," corrected the general.

"Oh, yes, the fancy guys would run up a long horn every time they made a break."

Gen. Ludlow closed the diamond case and thrust it into his bosom.

"The spies of the tribe have found me out in New York," he said, straightening his tall figure. "I'm familiar with the East Indian use of countenance, and I know that any movement is watched. They will undoubtedly attempt to rob and murder me here."

"Here!" exclaimed the reporter.

"At any moment," said the general. "But as a soldier and a connoisseur I shall sell my life and my diamond as dearly as I can."

At this point of the reporter's story there is a certain vagueness, but it can be gathered that there was a loud crashing noise at the rear of the house they were in. Gen. Ludlow buttoned his coat closely and sprang for the door. But the reporter clutched him firmly with one hand, while he held a decanter with the other.

"Tell me before we fly," he urged, in a voice thick with some inward turmoil. "do any of your gentlemen contemplate going on the stage?"

"I have no daughters—fly for your life!"

"Then a door opened in the temple, exposing a brightly illuminated image of the goddess Kali."

Life—the Phantasgars are upon us!" cried the general.

The two men dashed out of the front door of the house.

The house was late. As their feet struck the sidewalk strange men of dark and frowning appearance seemed to rise up out of the earth and encompass them. One with Asiatic features pressed close to the general and groined in a terrible voice:

"Buy east clo!"

Another, dark-skinned and sinister, spoke to the side and began in a whispering voice:

"Say, mister, have yer got a dime for a poor feller who's rather warm?"

They hurried on, but only into the arms of a black-eyed, dusky-browed being, who held out his hand and struck their noses, while a confederate of oriental hue turned the handle of a street organ near by.

"Twenty steps farther on Gen. Ludlow and the reporter found themselves in the midst of half a dozen villainous-looking men with high-turned collars and faces bristling with unshaven beards.

"Run for it!" hissed the general. "They have discovered the possessor of the diamond of the goddess Kali. The two men took to their heels of the diamond of the goddess Kali."

"Oh, Lord!" groaned the reporter. "there isn't a cow this side of Brooklyn. We're lost!"

When he heard the corner they both fell over an iron obstacle that rose from the sidewalk close to the gutter. Clinging to it desperately, they awaited their fate.

"I only had a cow!" moaned the reporter.

Las Guerras Largas son Cóns del Pasado

PARIS, Marzo 29.—La próxima guerra entre grandes potencias se desmenuzará en tres veces más que el último conflicto mundial, y se decidirá en un período de tiempo relativamente corto, según opinan expertos militares europeos que durante meses han estado estudiando el efecto que sobre las luchas futuras tendrán las nuevas producciones después del armisticio en el arte de la guerra con el fin de causar el terror en los combatientes.

Debido al importantísimo papel que representará el aeroplano y los vehículos automóviles, y a la velocidad tan acelerada, los técnicos creen que será imposible que una futura lucha armada dure tanto como la Guerra Mundial, cualquiera que sea el número de naciones complicadas en ella.

Joe Stecher, who has been in training at Long Beach, will meet Nick Lutze, one of the most popular young mat idols ever to appear in the local ring.

He attributes most of his victories to the Jack-knife scissors, a hold which he has become as proficient with as Stecher is with his body-scissors. He believes he will beat Stecher with that hold, as he claims it is just as punishing and effective as body holds.

Jack Vargo started a few weeks ago when those two little fellows battled an hour without a fall in the second round. Stecher won two championship bouts at the Olympic Auditorium tonight.

Stecher will find Lutze a different grapple than the one he wrestled here several months ago. He will find a youth, stronger, faster and more experienced than the one he had such a tough time getting to the mat for a fall in

TRACK MARKS IN DANGER

Revised List of Southern California Conference Records Indicates Several Due to Fall

BY BRAVEN DYER

Several Southern California Conference track-and-field records seem destined to fall when eight teams swing into action in the annual all-conference meet at the Coliseum Saturday. Recent action of conference officials did away with some of the best marks on the books, it being decided to accept only those records made in the all-conference meet each year.

In seasons past it has not always been so. Some of the marks have been possible to secure competent, wiped out are the 9.8s record of Murray Schultz (C.T.) Cliff Argue (O.) and Bob Richardson (U.C.A.) the 1m. 55.4s. of Ray Adkinson (P.) the 100. flat record of Charles Dages (P.) and Bill Young (R.) the 120ft. 7in. record of Hartley Widdess (P.) in the discus; the 23ft. 4 1/2-in. mark of Percy Hagaman (O.) in the broad jump, and the 13ft. 2 1/2-in. mark of Glenn Graham (C.T.) in the pole vault.

It seems a cinch that new marks will be set in the 100-yard dash, high hurdles, discus, javelin and possibly the half-mile.

Following are the official conference records:

100-yard dash—Shaw (P.) Chesny (P.) Argue (O.) Allen (U.) Schultz (C.T.) 11.6-11s.

220-yard dash—Schultz (C.T.) 11.6-11s.

Rancho Ties Lakeside in Playoff for Golf Team Championship

WON ELM STARS IN FAST EVENT
National King Leads Club in Tangled Fray
Trembley and Marshall Cop Lakeside Laurels
Stage Title Play-off April 14

BY BILL WISE
Many Van Elm, national amateur champion, played his Rancho clubmates in a heated eight-team clash with Lakeside at El Cabello yesterday, but when all scores had been computed, each club had won four matches and honors were all even in the set-to that was to decide the winner of the Southern California Golf Association team league title.

Playing through a driving rain, thirty-two golfers in this vicinity, divided in foursomes and in the final play, the exciting competition was hot and hotter until the continued rain—were steamrolling the match.

PASADENA PRO CLASH TODAY
Charles Guest, Lakeside, and Ed Dudley, Hollywood, will invade the Pasadena Golf Club this afternoon and attempt to trounce Eddie Loos and Willard Hutchison in what should be one of the best exhibition professional fouromes of the season. Since Loos took over the Pasadena job several weeks ago, daily play has been greatly stimulated and a fine gallery will follow the best-ball match this afternoon.

RANCHO WAS LEADING, 4 TO 3
Play to the first extra hole wrote finish for Rancho's pennant hopes—temporarily, at least. For after Mr. La Sarge stepped his second Mr. Jones carried into the trap and amid shall and Mrs. Trembley dropped short putts for par 4—to win the match and pull the team count up to 4 all.

It was a great day. Courage and confidence gained in the set-to yesterday will be a goading encouragement to Lakeside when the tangled competition is ironed out—over the same course Thursday, April 14, the date having been approved by George Cline. Match results were as follows:

behind it, and Pusette dropped like a log.
TRIES HARD
At the count of seven he stumbled up from one knee but fell forward on his face. As Referee Abe Roth counted ten he was groveling on the face in the resin trying vainly to rise, and had to be helped to his corner by his erstwhile black foe.

ON THE FLOOR
But it was in the fifth round that Anderson scored his biggest edge. After Lomski had plainly fouled him, Anderson came back with a sniping attack and scored Lomski with a hard right to the head. It was a clean knockdown. Lomski bounced up without a count, but ran into another right and two lefts before the bell rang.

I'M THE GINK

I'm the ginkette with a smattering of foreign languages. I know a phrase or so of French or German. I can't carry on any sort of conversation without interposing some of my phrases. I stick in a few "bon jours," "Oul, oul," and other muchly used and abused phrases. Of course, I know it makes me sound a bit absurd, but I want you to know that I have been abroad and that I picked up quite a bit of the languages. I just must hurl foreign words at you. It doesn't matter that I mispronounce them. I know I sound "foreign."

Reciprocity Key Word of Visitors' Message

Arizona's Sale of Foods to California Cited

Prompt Development of River Favored

PHOENIX, March 29. (Exclusive)—"Reciprocity" was the key word of the message brought today to Arizona's capital city by the southwestern trade tour of seventy-two delegates of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, representing thirty-eight business and manufacturing institutions and eight banks. The interdependence of Southern California and Arizona was emphasized throughout the day. From the time of a courtesy call in the morning upon Gov. Hunt, till the end of the speech-making at an evening banquet tendered the visitors at the Arizona Club by the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce. The Governor expressed good will in answer to the greetings from the coast borne by President D. F. McGarry.

The visitors arrived at 7 a.m. by special train from sightseeing on the Grand Canyon and took receipt of hearty hospitality at Jerome and Prescott. The business men found the morning too short for rounds of the city. At noon they were entertained at the country and Arizona clubs, and drives around the Salt River Valley consumed the time until the evening dinner. It was nearly midnight when the special pulled out for Bisbee, the next stop, after which will be visited Douglas, Nogales, Tucson and Globe.

Several hundred townspeople joined in the evening reception to the visitors. Toastmaster was ex-Gov. Sloan, with the welcoming address by Leigh Ford, president of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce, and a former Angeleno. The latter gave prediction that by the time that the Angel City's residential and manufacturing areas will have extended from mountain to sea, then will come appreciation of the value of Arizona food products. Seward C. Simons of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce staff, in his reply, backed up Mr. Ford's prophecy, with statements that Southern California already uses $15,000,000 worth of Arizona products a year and wishes for more.

Three-fourths of Arizona's cattle go to California markets. There was mention that returns in coming in the sale within Arizona of $10,000,000 worth of Los Angeles goods. Mr. Simons brought applause by his declaration that a singleness of interest should unite the people of the two States.

That the Salt River Valley soon will be able to furnish the major needs of the great coast city was shown in an address by C. C. Craig, manager of the Salt River project, with statement of the great areas that will be added to the local acreage, still further to be extended by locally generated hydroelectric power that will pay large interest in itself to the farmers of the Salt River association.

An informative address, the most important of the series, was that of Dwight B. Heard, who sought to show the Californians that there might be grounds for mutual interest in calm consideration of questions that are arising with regard to distribution of the water and power of the Colorado River.

OPPOSE SWING BILL
While Arizona people were declared a unit in opposition to the Swing-Johnson bill, he said, the vast majority support prompt development of the river, using governmental aid. The same development that has been noted in the Salt River Valley can be duplicated on a larger scale on the Colorado, with the same idea of making the power pay the cost. Reference was made to the recent organization of the Arizona-Colorado River Development Association, which is calling for mutual action, based upon tolerance.

The speaker favored a new river-control bill, recognizing the rights of the States of the lower basin, with Arizona allocated at least one-half the water flowing at Lee Ferry and allowed an equitable revenue from the power to be generated. Declaring against any storage of water for use without the United States, he assured the Californians that Arizona is agreeable to appropriation of the Western States share either for reclamation or domestic use, though with reservation of Arizona's share from operation of priorities that might have been acquired by either California or Mexico. He urged that, the question should be treated as an economic one of business, freed from entanglement of politics, and that a new treaty be made that would open up an era of almost unparalleled development for the whole Southwest.

The final address, by President McGarry, was a message of good will, with assurance that care should be taken to conserve the rights of all without reference to the State of residence.

PORTLAND (Or.) March 29. (AP)—Affairs of the Northwestern National Bank of Portland, upon which a run was started yesterday, were taken in hand today by the United States National Bank and the First National Bank, which guaranteed all deposits and arranged to liquidate the bank. All depositors will be paid in full by the two banks, which, with the Portland Clearinghouse, will arrange for the liquidation of the Northwestern. The banks today had available $15,000,000 cash with which to pay off deposits. Liquidation of the Northwestern Bank's affairs is expected to require several months. The bank kept open beyond the usual closing hour at 8 o'clock, and paid all depositors until 4 o'clock when the doors were closed for the day.

What Is Sound Investment?

An Important Question Explicitly Answered

SOUND INVESTMENT requires, first of all, marketable underlying security of sufficient value to insure beyond question the payment of principal and interest in full at maturity, or complete compensation in the event of default for any reason.

Secondly, it calls for a fair and reasonable interest return on the invested capital, and convincing evidence that interest payments will be made promptly on due dates.

Thirdly, it demands stability, and the assurance of satisfactory liquidation value in the event of need for quick cash on the part of the investor.

In addition to the foregoing factors, many people require an investment which is obtainable in convenient denominations, in order to keep their funds closely invested; and they also prefer to receive their interest payments by check rather than through clipping of coupons. In other words, they want an investment that is completely care-free.

How many investments can qualify as sound in every sense of the word?

It will pay any investor to keep the foregoing points constantly in mind when considering new offerings, using the Guaranteed First Mortgage Certificates of the Mortgage Guarantee Company as a basis of comparison.

These Certificates conform in all respects to the highest standards of sound investment—plus. They are secured by select, diversified, improved real estate, conservatively appraised at a valuation more than double the total face amount of outstanding Certificates, in addition to which they are guaranteed as to both principal and interest by this Company—one of the strongest institutions of its kind in the United States—under the stringent Mortgage Insurance Act of California. They are legal for all banks, insurance companies and trust funds, and are purchased largely for institutional investment.

effect on speculative sentiment. Wall street also was inclined to the belief that the strength of some of the high-priced issues would be better than on most high-grade bonds.

With indications that $400,000,000 will be distributed around the end of the month in the form of dividends, interest and bond redemptions, it is considered logical to assume that at least part of these funds will find their way into stock-market channels.

Publication of several additional February railroad earnings reports, bringing the total to sixty-three Class One carriers, brings aggregate net income of these carriers last month above that of the corresponding period last year. A compilation of the first returns made an unfavorable comparison, but it now appears as though the total February net of all Class One carriers reached $70,000,000, an amount slightly less than $80,000,000 last year.

Revival of optimism and strength in the Missouri Pacific issue was accompanied by rumors that plans were under way to clear up the accumulation of dividends on the preferred stock of Chesapeake and Ohio long ground today, but Wall street heard that an early resumption of the plan was between the Van Swearingens and the minority interest was forthcoming on the reported plan of the Delaware and Hudson to follow the action of Lackawanna in segregating its treasury assets.

Call money renewed at 4 1/2 per cent and held steady at that figure all day. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Commodity markets displayed a much firmer undertone. Active wheat futures advanced about a cent, and bushel with short covering operations reported to represent a large share of the buying. Cotton closed at 23 points higher on buying, influenced by reports of unfavorable weather.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary, with demand sterling rising around 94.85 1/4 and French francs around 2.91 cents.

DAMAGES GIVEN TO DE MERVEUX

Blackton Ordered to Pay Him $500 for Whipping

Complainant Being Sought on Insanity Complaint

Hunt Started as Jury Tells Its Verdict on Beating

Gerard De Merveux, Hollywood fencing master, was awarded $500 damages by a jury in Superior Judge Gates' court last night for a whipping at the hands of J. Stuart Blackton, film producer.

Merveux had sued for $25,000. Attorneys for the complainant hailed the verdict as a "moral victory," while the defense counsel declared the small amount awarded by the jury indicated that the jurors had not taken the fencing master's allegations too seriously.

The jury was composed of six men and six women. Three of the male members announced that they did not agree with the majority verdict when polled by the bailiff. Nine votes are sufficient for a verdict.

Following the reading of the jury's decision, Judge Gates announced that he will inform the Sheriff's office at once that it is at liberty to arrest De Merveux on an insanity complaint obtained earlier by Albert A. Kidd, counsel for Blackton. Kidd had filed a complaint with the Lunacy Commission, asserting that De Merveux is subject to delusions of persecution and had threatened to kill Blackton's two daughters and made threats against Kidd himself.

ARREST PLANNED

After hearing from Judge Gates, Capt. Harrod, in charge of the night squad at the Sheriff's office, immediately dispatched a squad of officers to apprehend De Merveux, but it was believed that their quarry probably would not be arrested until this morning when it was anticipated, his attorneys plan to surrender him.

When news of the issuance of the warrant reached the courtroom of Judge Gates, where the case was being argued before the jury, it caused a stir. Judge Gates said he had telephoned the office of the Sheriff and issued instructions that no effort be made to arrest De Merveux in the courtroom, explaining that such an act would probably result in prejudicing the jury and would deprive the plaintiff of his day in court.

De Merveux was absent from the afternoon session of the court. Attorney Lorrin Andrews, his counsel, explaining that he had instructed the Court house could or would say yesterday afternoon where he was.

Attorneys Kidd and Andrews were allowed two hours each in which to argue the causes of their clients before the jury, each seeking as far as possible to discredit the other's witnesses. It was late in the afternoon before Judge Gates finished his instructions and the jury retired shortly after 4 o'clock. An hour later they called for certain exhibits. Judge Gates announced, when he left for dinner, that he would return if notified that a verdict had been reached.

TESTIMONY VARIED

De Merveux based his suit upon an attack made upon him by Blackton in the latter's home the morning of April 10, 1924. That De Merveux was there and that Blackton whipped him was not denied by anyone. But during the seven days the case was on trial there was great variance in the testimony offered as to De Merveux's position in the Blackton household, the events leading up to the attack and the degree of severity with which the thrashing was administered. Corroborating all this and having a bearing on the whole issue was testimony as to the kind of fellow De Merveux is. De Merveux pictured himself as a guest in the Blackton home. He said that Mrs. Blackton had written him some kind of a note and that he had told her that in view of some situation—the character of which he did not explain—the only honorable thing for him to do was to leave. He was packing up his bags, preparing to leave, he said, when Mrs. Blackton attacked him. A few moments later, he related, and while he was still packing his luggage, he was surprised by Blackton himself, who proceeded to belabor him with a horse-whip, causing him serious physical injury. In addition to this, he complained, the tale of what happened caused a great deal of gossip in Hollywood and proved to be bad for his business of teaching fencing. Blackton, in testimony, told a different story. Blackton said De Merveux was being harbored in his home because his family was sorry for for him. De Merveux, he said, had been employed as instructor of fencing for the two Blackton girls. After he had heard rumors that the fencing master had been voicing threats in connection with his daughters and was not of such character as he would wish to intimate an employee to be, Blackton said, he had discharged him. But upon De Merveux's representations that he was in desperate straits, Blackton continued, he had taken him back into his home in the capacity of general handy man, permitting him to live in the servants' quarters.

SENSATIONAL SUIT'S THREE PRINCIPALS

Mrs. Blackton, in her deposition, related that she had dismissed De Merveux from whatever employment he held in her home the night before the whipping. That morning, she said, she was going to her kitchen and De Merveux stopped her and asked her if she had told her husband of his dismissal. When she replied that she had, Blackton related, he leaped at her, scratched her neck and arm and twisted her left hand and arm painfully. She said she ran to her husband, white with fear and pain, and gasped out: "It's Gerard."

Blackton testified that at this he hastened down a hallway, snatched a juvenile riding crop from his son's room and came upon De Merveux in the servants' quarters, where he indicated what he described as a comparatively light chastisement and "gave him a severe tongue-lashing, after which he was ordered to 'forget' the incident if paid $500."

De Merveux pictured himself as a war hero and a sort of soldier of fortune, temporarily reduced to fencing lessons and the sale of silk underwear and radio sets. Blackton and his witness, on the other hand, painted him as an adventurer, confessedly out to obtain money from women and their relatives.

In all more than twenty witnesses were heard, including picture actors, piano players, manicurists, doctors and retired capitalists, making up, in general, a cross-section of the population of Hollywood.

Rogers Airport Plane Exhibit Open Sunday

The first commercial airplane show ever held in Los Angeles will open Sunday at Rogers Airport, according to announcement last night by officials of the flying field. Eight manufacturers or distributors already have signed their intention of exhibiting their planes and it is expected that this number will be doubled before the opening of the show. Fourteen commercial type planes are either built or sold in Los Angeles, and it is the ambition of men in the industry to hold an annual exhibition similar to the automobile show. The Rogers airport, in its new location at Santa Barbara avenue and Angeles mesa drive, now is said to have the largest commercial flying field in the West, with facilities for twenty-two planes. The public is invited and the exhibition will be free.

ILLINOIS BANKER EXPLAINS FEUDS

Gunsman Kill Off Each Other, Says L. A. Goddard

Unpleasant Publicity Given His City Deplored

Visitor Here Gives Secret for Living Long Time

Chicago is getting a lot of unpleasant publicity about its criminal element, which is not deserved, according to Leroy A. Goddard, chairman of the board of directors of the State Bank of Chicago, who is a guest at the Biltmore.

"This gunplay on Chicago streets you read so much about really is a good thing," Mr. Goddard remarked. "It is almost altogether a private matter between different groups of gunmen and liquor gangs. Every time there is a killing it is one less of this element for Chicago to worry about. If there isn't too much police interference, and at present it doesn't look as if there were, these fellows eventually will kill each other off."

Mr. Goddard made his first visit to California fifty-two years ago. Coming back to Illinois, he drifted into the banking business and became one of the leading financial men of the State. He is past president of the Illinois Bankers' Association and holds the office of president of the Illinois Bankers' Protective Association, which has done much to reduce bank robberies. At 21 years of age, Mr. Goddard was elected Treasurer of Marion, Ill., and at 23 was elected Mayor of that city.

Although he is 58, Mr. Goddard does not look 40. He has all of his own teeth and if he has lost any hair it is not noticeable. "How have you managed to retain your youth?" he was asked. "By being good-natured," he answered promptly. "The world is a pretty nice place; it is only the individual who looks at it through gloomy glasses who finds it unpleasant. I play a little golf, but I find smiling the best exercise there is to maintain good health."

"Speaking of golf, your greatest asset here is climate and your best utilization of it golf and motorcoring. We can raise the climate in any place, we have every thing you have here elsewhere except climate. We can't make climate, we have to go to it. That's where Southern California has it over other parts of the country."

"The second annual exhibit of the Hollywood Architects' League, which has proven of such interest, will close Saturday night, Charles Kysen, president, announced yesterday. "Plans will be formulated at the regular weekly luncheon of the league members today for a greater exhibition of architecture and the allied arts and crafts," he said. Such an exhibition will bring great prestige to the community and crystallize public opinion into the realization of the great artistic talent in their midst."

HIGH PHONE RATES LAID TO "BOSS-LOVE"

The people of Los Angeles are paying exorbitant rates for telephone service and will continue to do so as long as they are ruled by a "secret boss-controlled" government, Andrew Nordmark, telephone engineer, declared in a talk before the Wilshire Optimist Club yesterday noon in the Ambassador. "There will be no relief from the present situation unless the people of Los Angeles exercise their right of franchise at the next election," the speaker said. "It is the civic duty of every voter to become informed as to who the boss-controlled officials and candidates are."

Much More Fun in Posing as Boy

Grace Kenny (Jerry) McFarlane

BADGE TRIP'S GIRL "SHEIK"

Female "Newsy" Picked Up and Vagrant Brags About Masquerade in Men's Attire

Barely out of jail on vagrancy charges of masquerading as a boy, Grace Kenny, alias "Jerry" McFarlane, 23 years of age, found herself in difficulty again last night after too promiscuously flashing an officer's badge, gleaming on her left breast. An investigation suddenly "demoted" her and sent her on her way, but she lost her badge.

After a time, garbed in men's clothing, hustling papers and dashing through traffic behind the wheel of a taxicab, the young masquerader, after two brushes with the law, explained why she preferred the habiliments of a man to the frills and fancies of her own sex.

"It's much more fun to be a man," she said as she sat with cup pulled over her "plucked" eyebrows—perhaps the latter being a feminine vanity she could not put aside with her dress—a cigarette at rakish angle between naturally red lips; violet blue socks slopping about the tops of her trim brown shoes in keeping with the collegiate mood of the day.

"Besides, I get along better, too, and the life is freer and easier," she continued contentedly. "I've been Jerry, or Miss McFarlane, as the dress may be, was arrested last week in Exposition Park while enjoying a mild flirtation with two passing girls. She is booked on a vagrancy charge. "Sure, I guess I flirted with them," Jerry opined. "They give me a smile

Early Training Urged to Make True Christian

That respectable, moral and generous people living in a Christian environment do not realize that all that is fine and unselfish in their character is the result of early Christian training, was the declaration of Rev. William O. Moreland, bishop of the diocese of Sacramento, who gave the noonday address in St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday.

"How to Obtain Salvation" was the subject of Bishop Moreland's talk. This, he said, was not to be obtained through a state of emotion, but through the surrender of the will to God.

In speaking of the effect of Christian environment upon the character, Bishop Moreland said: "These people are the product of Christianity, although unconscious of it. Very different would they have been had they been born and reared amid naked savages."

HARBOR INQUIRY REPORT MADE AFTER EIGHT MONTHS OF STUDY THE CHARGES THE FINDINGS THE CHARGES THE FINDINGS

Department affairs are conducted in the incumbency as Harbor Commissioner of Robert M. Clarke, appointed through the influence of Kent Parrot for the political advertising of the Harbor Department. The report says that the Harbor Board meetings were held at the Harbor Department building, and that the Harbor Board members were without technical knowledge and must rely upon the general manager and engineer. It is pointed out that the importance of having experienced, efficient and competent men in these positions cannot be overemphasized.

WARRANT IN RUM SEARCH NECESSARY McReynolds Orders Men Not to Use Police Forcing Entrance to Homes

Illegal search of private homes for evidence of liquor violation will not be tolerated by Maj. Frank R. McReynolds, Federal Prohibition Administrator for Southern California and Arizona. This was stated yesterday by Administrator McReynolds in verifying the report that two of his agents had been threatened with dismissal if they again use local police as a subterfuge in entering Los Angeles residences. Two Federal prohibition agents are asserted to have obtained police to accompany them and conduct the search of a home, of which the search failed to reveal any liquor.

Roads to Cancel Switch Charges on Coast Fruits

The California Fruit Growers Exchange announced yesterday that eastern railroads have agreed to cancel, effective May 2, a terminal charge in the New York metropolitan district of 3 cents a hundred pounds, which was imposed in 1924. The cancellation means a saving of $10.00 a carload or about $75,000 a year to the California orange growers, the exchange figures. The traffic committee of the exchange, the announced, also has filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission asking that the amount paid in this charge be refunded, and asking also the cancellation of a similar charge in the New England district. The exchange also announced that there will be heavy shipments of naval oranges during April, amounting to about 100 carloads. Shipments of Valencia from the Tulare section is expected to begin April 30. Some districts in Northern California are already making export shipments to Europe, it was declared.

GENERALLY SPEAKING
Barber-shop wit is notoriously dull, yet few people make so many cutting remarks, generally speaking, as barbers do.

CHAMPION FOOLS
After all, the fool who is soon parted from his money isn't half as big a fool as the fellow who never parts from it.

TURN ABOUT
Fortune isn't fickle, but exceptionally loyal. If you earnestly care for it in your prime it will care for you in your old age.

ALSO THEIR ONIONS
A Princeton professor knows that there is vegetable life on the planet Mars. Perhaps he has got hold of one of their seed catalogues.

HANDICAPPED
Short-legged men may win fame as statesmen, but they rarely rank high as mere politicians. It's too difficult for them to straddle.

NOT ART
Art is long, just as it always was, even in this age of speed. You can prove that to yourself by reading only of the works of a novelist who writes two or three a year.

EXHIBITIONS
We hope nobody will think us too skeptical. But sometimes these gasoline prices were look to us like mere friendly sparring matches for the purpose of keeping in condition.

TOO ACTIVE
The worst thing about running accounts is that they aren't content to keep just running. Unless they are constantly watched they'll start jumping, pole-vaulting and airplaning.

SPRING SYMPHONIES
California's orange groves and eucalyptus woods are full of spring songs, but back East the pipes of Pan one hears at this season are the same old complaining steam pipes they heard all winter.

KEEPING THE PEACE
A member of the Quebec Legislature has just made his maiden speech in that body after twenty-seven consecutive years of service. The solons on this side of the Great Lakes are not nearly as considerate of their constituents.

SAVAGES
The headhunters of the Brazilian wilds, a returned explorer says, usually are inspired to murderous action by the theft of their wives by other men. They seem to be just about as civilized as some of our society folks, at that.

THE ROAD MAKERS
The State of Iowa expects to build more than 1000 miles of good highways this year. They are either trying to make the State look like California or else they are making it easier for the citizens to journey westward in their cars.

BIG BUSINESS
Uncle Sam's experts have been working seven years in the effort to compute the weight of the world, but we are assured that the government has no intention of buying it at so much a pound. The average man may not think that the poundage of our globe is very important, but it is better to be figuring on that than forging swords.

MODERN ANTIQUES
A movie actress is going into court because some of the antiques she bought with her home were made last year in Grand Rapids. The average person will feel that the lady is not a good sport. The sale of antiques is conducted under the ancient rule of "caveat emptor" and if the relics are not as wormy as supposed the lady might at least have kept mum about it. What business has a movie maid dallying with antiques, anyhow? One would think they would make her shudder.

WHAT TO WEAR
The experts designing clothes for our Brummels deny that radical styles or colors will be in favor this year. The well-dressed man is not going to be a circus parade, after all. The valiant note in his raiment will be quiet distinction—whatever that is. Anyhow, lurid checks or flamboyant plaids are not to be the regalia of business, and evening togery will be much the same as for the past forty or fifty years. It is expected, however, that every garment shall be well made and of the best materials obtainable. Trousers are to be narrower than last year and can no longer be pulled over the head. For sport service blue flannels with white pants will show good form—sometimes. Clothes are to be as costly and essential as ever.

EUROPE IN THE REMAKING
Most significant of the political developments in Central and Western Europe during the last twelve months is the appearance of Fascist groups in parliaments and the weakening of the Communist and Radical-Socialist groups. Discussion of parties and their policies in the different European states is rendered more difficult because names of the parties are apt to be misleading when one turns to the policies which they espouse. To illustrate, there are groups operating under the party appellation of Socialist that are ultra-conservative—even monarchist—and other groups known as Nationalists that espouse Socialist programs. But when one learns to disregard the label and sample the contents of the political container the contradictions disappear.

In Germany the conservative trend is most pronounced, but those advocating conservative policies are divided into so many political groups and party hostility is so embittered that they often defeat through personal and party animosity the very policies they espouse. If the members of the Reichstag could be separated in two major political divisions, like the Democratic and Republican parties in this country, the conservatives would never lack a working majority.

France, on the other hand, is inclined to radicalism. If France felt strong enough to stand alone the radicals would be in complete control. Paris as a municipality inclines to pink-tea Communism, and most of the members of Parliament from Paris districts are to be found in the Communist group. But the experience of the last eight years has taught the French representatives that Communism as a national policy would surely bring about industrial and financial collapse, so they compromise with their political consciences by espousing a modified Communism in theory, but rejecting it in practice.

A conservative, even a Fascist reaction in French domestic policies, has appeared since Italy has made such marked progress under Mussolini. The Fascist group is obtaining recruits regularly from the other parties, while the membership of the Communist and Radical-Socialist groups continues to dwindle. There are even those who assert that in the next general elections the Communist group will be practically wiped out.

Misleading to us of this country is the party appellation of the Fascist group in the German Reichstag. It is known as the National Socialist party. This party, according to the Political Handbook published by the American Committee of Foreign Relations, "espouses an anti-Semitic, monarchistic and extreme nationalist program of dictatorship. In foreign policy it opposes the peace treaty terms and all reparation payments, including the Dawes Plan. In domestic policy it advocates the overthrow of the republic by force."

While it is unthinkable that a group espousing such policies should become strong enough to form a government, it has its effect in influencing the policies of some of the government blocks that need votes to assume and maintain control.

Six of the nine political groups in Germany espouse with more or less insistence the monarchist principle. But it is here as with the radical principle in France; a restoration of the monarchy would lead to foreign complications so grave that, for the present, it is inadvisable. Asserting that they are monarchists, they continue to support a republican form of government. So long as they are willing to renounce their monarchist predilections in order to hold public office they are not likely to be a serious menace to the republic. They are like those who say they would like to be in heaven and still make every effort to prolong their earthly pilgrimage.

Communism as a national policy has lost three-fourths of its adherents of seven years ago. The Fascist policy, implying a dictatorship, must now be reckoned with in European political affairs. Its growth is not vigorous enough, however, to be regarded at the present time as a menace to republican government. It is like some of the political "movements" that have come out of the Middle West in our own country. They wax for a time like mushrooms, and like mushrooms they waste. They are storms that pass over the surface, but leave the depths undisturbed.

Representative government continues to exist and thrive because there is no adequate substitute. When representative government falls civilization totters. It is the only theory of government that can sustain the test of actual application to modern states and communities.

JOURNEYS THROUGH PARADISE
In her soft embrace an armful of sun-strewn days to delight the hearts of all who are fortunate enough to claim them. Where in all the world can one find so many bits of paradise as are heaped in the lap of our Golden State and what spot on earth could use them so happily as California?

It would be unbecoming of one to advise California not to see the rest of America, but it certainly is wise advice to recommend to Californians that they see California first or at least to see it, too, and if it is to be just "too" why not begin the ultimate adventure?

If one seeks natural beauty, either pastoral, woody or grand, there is an eyeful of it for every hour of journeying through the High Sierras, the valley of the Shasta, the Big Tree country, Yosemite, the Tahoe region and hundreds of other sections too numerous to catalogue and too wonderful to analyze.

If one has a sporting heart that is teased by the thoughts of the leaping trout no greater delight could be forthcoming than to tramp with rod and reel through the pine and aspen groves that mirror themselves in clear waters all but crowded by rainbow, eastern brookies, cutthroat, golden and other sportive trout. There may be—though great the doubt—other waters on earth where the trout fishing is as good as the best of California's streams and lakes, but there is none where it is better. Have you seen the rugged peaks of the Sierras scraping against the dome of the deep cerulean heavens? Have you stood at the summit of Tioga Pass with its lordly sentinel, Mt. Dana, on your right hand and looked off across Mono Valley with its varicolored dead sea shimmering on its bosom? Have you seen God's own museum of natural wonders at Yosemite? Have you sailed the emerald sea called Tahoe? Have you followed the racing Shasta down its forested gorges and over its leaping cascades? The word "grandeur" is best defined by glimpses of such glory.

Are you harried by the murmurings of agnostics and atheists? "The groves were God's first temples," and the rippling, rustling aspens, the friendly Jeffrey pines, the redwoods and the godly Sequoias invite you to walk in their fragrant shadows and know again that it is the fool who has said in his heart what only athletes say. Think on the Sequoia Gigantea, the first of God's first temples, dating back to and through and beyond the days when the Man of Nazareth Himself sought comfort in a garden. They rise a hundred feet higher than the loftiest buildings in Los Angeles and their giant trunks are broader at the base than many bungalows that house whole families. Nowhere else in the world are they found except in the 200-mile-long belt on the west slope of the High Sierras, at elevations ranging from 4000 to 7000 feet above the Pacific. Wise men come from over the world to look upon them. They are the world's greatest examples of health and longevity, free from all disease.

The botanist and the mineralogist, the ornithologist and the geologist and kindred scholars find the best-stocked laboratories of nature in California. Whatever you lack—health, recreation, sport, knowledge—you can find somewhere between the crests of the great ranges and the strands of the Pacific. Whatever you desire California can give to you. And summer is coming with an armful of glorious days!

IS ENGLAND DECADENT?
A recent address in the city by Dr. Bruce Baxter on the topic "Is England Decadent?" was full of insights on the British attitude toward America.

When asked what he thought about debt paying, a Briton replied, "We made a bad bargain." Pressed for an interpretation of his statement, the American was reminded that the United States settled with Belgium for 46 cents on the dollar; Italy, 25 cents; and an offer to France of 50 cents on the dollar.

Then followed the hearty announcement, "But we will pay every dollar." It was not bitterness, just a feeling of disappointment. There is also a sensitiveness in London over the financial center of the world shifting from Lombard street to Wall street.

Unlike the college men of Columbia and Princeton, Dr. Baxter does not have the reaction after six months' stay in London that we should cancel Europe's debts. It would defeat the purposes of America for disarmament.

However, the terms should be made as easy as possible and distributed through many generations. The ships of state on the continent will sail better with plenty of ballast in their holds for many decades.

The English journalist who coined the phrase, "Uncle Shylock," appears to have been ostracized. The last heard of this newspaper man he was tramping the streets in search of a job. The reaction of the English was not healthful.

About 1,500,000 men are yet receiving the dose. And yet three British tobacco houses recently declared a dividend of $50,000,000. Women are drinking like men. The entrances to groceries are often clogged with baby carriages parked on the sidewalk in front.

The most pronounced voice for prohibition is that of Lady Astor, former American. While the reform has not penetrated the economic brain of John Bull, it is in the moral stage of propaganda. Here were its beginnings in America. It is hardly thought the end of the saloon will come in this generation.

Upon being beckled in one of her speeches by a man who asked Lady Astor, "Don't you wish you were a man?" she finally retorted, "Don't you wish you were a man?"

England suffered terrific casualties in the war. A Warwickshire regiment had 25 per cent fatalities. The Isle of Man furnished 1000 soldiers and but twenty-five of these survive. Tremendous economic pressure has also been endured the last eighteen months. However, her spirit is unquenched. Her ideals are paramount. Dean Inge is reputed.

Is England decadent? The head of the famous firm of Lloyds is typical and sufficient. Not long ago he received an invitation to dine with the King at Buckingham Palace. The honor came on Thursday night. For twenty-five years this big business man had not failed to meet his Sunday-school class on that night in the week.

He met his class as usual! History furnishes ample testimony that decadence is a mental disease. Until the character of a people weakens it retains its place in the sun. It is not until a people begins to follow false gods in government, in industry and in religion that decadence appears. Material losses can be replaced, but when character and morals are replaced by decay national prosperity and national security disappear.

CHINESE PUZZLES
One of Uncle Sam's retired admirals, who is now resting in Southern California, is quoted as saying that the Chinese are a wonderful people if left to themselves. He adds that a great deal of the friction with China is due to the missionaries. He says that they rush in where angels fear to tread and are not often diplomatic. They always have to be supported and backed up by the government and this may be the match that starts the larger conflagration.

A CLEAR CONSCIENCE
By James J. Montague

To work, as a lad, I would not turn my hand to thrive. I left, unremarked and unheeded, My father's repeated and earnest command To work as the good little bee did. My conscience disturbed me a bit now and then.

I knew I was wicked and wasteful. But work, though approved by the noblest of men—Struck me as extremely distasteful.

But often I groaned in my sleep of a night. For terrible dreams would enfold me—For I knew that it neither was honest nor right Not to do as my parent had told me. And for many a year I was filled with regret.

Which was much too belated to save me. To think how at brazen defiance I set. The well-meant advice that he gave me.

But knowing, of course, that I never would thrive I loaded while the weather was sunny. And gave not a thought to the bee in the hive And his method of storing up honey. My thoughts, as I dozed over wearisome books.

'Neath the eyes of my grim-visaged teachers. Were of birds in the trees and of trout in the brooks—And of other improvident creatures.

But now I have learned that this hypocrite bee For toil has a deep-set repulsion. In fact, he is merely a loner like me. Who only will work on compulsion. And so caring conscience can't keep me awake.

Though in age I am left empty-handed, I have copied the bee without ever a break. Which was just what my father commended! (Copyright, 1937, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Fair to Jugo-Slavia
LOS ANGELES, March 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As editor of Narodni Glasnik, Jugo-Slavia weekly in Los Angeles, I am taking this opportunity to thank you and your paper for your thorough and impartial public information on the recent critical developments of conditions between Italy and Jugo-Slavia.

I am sure, sir, that by such service as your paper is performing in this matter you are doing an immense service not only to my mother country—Jugo-Slavia—but to the rest of the world also, and mostly to Italy and her people themselves.

I believe, only by such publicity as your paper is conducting in this matter the American people and the rest of the thinking world will know the truth. And the world-known truth is a swiftly east weapon to stop any political adventurer of plunging his own people and the rest of the world in a new hell.

I am sure, sir, that my appreciation of your work and my deep gratitude for it is shared with me by some 24,000 Jugo-Slavs, who have settled in Los Angeles county to become good and prosperous American citizens.

Wild Geese
TUNJUNGA, March 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I heard them in the night—the clear call of the leader and the quick response of those that followed; I heard the swish of beating pinions, rising and falling as one like the oars of some aerial ship, swiftly passing overhead. I was thrilled!

Out there in the night on their trackless way, without chart or compass, flying straight and true in orderly procession through the wild, dark sky.

I've often wondered at the saying: "Silly as a goose." The goose is far from being silly. It is, indeed, the wisest of birds, not excepting our famed American eagle. Out there in the night, flying straight and true. They knew where they were going, why they were going and the way they knew. Very few people know as much—most of us are not going anywhere—we are just floating around.

Bryan's Sincerity
SAWTELLE (Cal.) March 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I certainly do take great pleasure in saying "Amen" to Huntington Park's letter to The Times of March 19, criticizing Messrs. White and Carr for their attack of March 15, 1937, on Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Bryan, Mr. Bryan, I was not of the same politics, but I am quite sure he was perfectly sincere and meant and believed all he preached. I was in office in the Courtroom in Jacksonville, Fla., when he was a young man and still single and always found him absolutely sincere in defending the right as he saw it. I was also a citizen of Emporia, Kan., Mr. White's home town, and was among his friends and supporters and he among mine. I really believe and hope that Mr. White was misquoted in his article.

True Till Death
MONROVIA, March 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] An item in the Times of November 2, 1936, with pictures of Mr. R. W. Byrd's Alredale, now causes me to take the liberty of addressing myself to him in my great loss by death of a noble Alredale, who was the only faithful friend and companion I had in the world. He proved most faithful by the whole and I have had nearly seventy years of life by which to judge.

I applied for one or two burial lots in the cemetery here in which to place his remains; also to be occupied by myself, but they could not permit dogs to be buried there—not even their ashes—if I had them cremated.

Can anyone inform me of a cemetery where I can place them and when death comes to me I can be placed beside them in eternal rest with them?

O. L. MERRIAM.

Favors Extermination
CLAREMONT, March 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have just read an article in an eastern paper telling how they punish criminals in Milwaukee in a way that is suppressing crime by the wholesale. Why can we not in California do likewise? We have got to have our criminal laws changed to make punishment more severe. I heartily commend that our laws be changed to read that all dangerous criminals, after being caught the second time, be lined up before a firing squad and shot at sunrise the next morning. The world would be far better off without them. Also let the parole business be abolished.

GEORGE J. B. ATKINS.

PLAYGROUNDS IN MID-AIR
A special sort of playground adapted to the peculiar conditions of population congestion of a large city is about to be built in New York. This playground, which is to be six stories high, will be built in the form of five terraces, with open-air ramps leading to each level. Altogether there will be over 100,000 square feet of open-air play space and about 127,000 square feet of indoor space. It will contain an auditorium, dance hall, swimming pool, gymnasium and bowling alley, while the little children will have swings, see-saws and other playground equipment. Rents from stores on the street level are expected to furnish operating expenses. The first playground of this design will be for the use of the lower end of the city.

BANKERS' RELATION TO PROHIBITION
BY MARGARET C. MURPHY
National W.C.T.U. Treasurer
The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is endeavoring to wreck the greatest construction move the world has ever seen. Laborers to bankers beggar for money to help overturn prohibition are being out from William H. Burton, chairman of the association, containing this statement:
"Many officials of financial institutions feel that they may not properly engage in any activities which would identify their institutions with either side of a controversial question. We are writing, therefore, to you individually to ask that you give whatever assistance as a citizen you feel you can to the great importance of our own country and to its institutions."
It is not likely that many bankers, misled by this secret opportunity to undermine the Constitution.
*PROHIBITION—PROSPERITY.
The contribution prohibition has made to prosperity is a true subject, but it may be valuable to recapitulate the points as told by national and individual economists.
Hoover, for instance, has calculated that in the seven years of prohibition bank deposits have increased from $11,000,000,000 to $12,000,000,000.
The National Bureau of Economic Research in New York City has issued a bulletin, the result of several years' study, showing that national and individual incomes have increased one-third since prohibition. The figures in gross are $27,000,000,000 income increase since 1921, which spread over everyone, including labor in every industry, would mean a $770 income for each of us.
The actual added benefit to the American family, however, is found in the 25 per cent added purchasing power over the income of the pre-prohibition days.
*EXPERTS TESTIFY
It has been officially stated by government experts that liquor is only 10 per cent as much for liquor as formerly. Of the old drink money $1,500,000,000 goes into saloons, homes, houses, furniture, automobiles and miscellaneous items in equal proportions; and this great sum of money related to the legitimate industries of the country has resulted in an unequalled prosperity. Formerly, the $2,000,000,000 drink money went to the liquor business and no one else benefited. But now it has doubled, in some places, with attendant prosperity, and high wages in the allied industries and trades. The average American family who twenty years ago looked on a photograph as a luxury now looks on a photograph as a necessity. The average family who twenty years ago looked on a photograph as a luxury now looks on a photograph as a necessity. The average family who twenty years ago looked on a photograph as a luxury now looks on a photograph as a necessity.

The Woman's Press Club of Southern California gave its seventh monthly program over KHJ last evening, the last broadcast in the series. Nellie Graham Sinclair, president of the organization, gave a brief review of the club's history which was particularly appropriate since recently celebrated its thirty-third anniversary.
Their program included violin solos by Patsy Forsyth Heman, who presented selections by Bohm, Saint-Saens and Kreisler, accompanied by Ruth Towne Smith, Ray Harston, tenor, accompanied by Eugene Lamb, offered two groups of compositions of Frederick Hermann. This was Mr. Hermann's last radio program for several months as he leaves shortly for study in Europe.
Frederick Hermann, basso cantante, sang a group of solos, the lyrics of which were from the pen of the club members, and Leatha Journey Probst read some prize poems from the recent Press Club contest.
This program was followed by a concert on the Times radio played by Harold Roberts and his Golden State Band, which plays at the Olympic Auditorium, and flash reports of the fight were broadcast between numbers. The musical aggregation will open the spring concert season in the city park system next Sunday afternoon at 1:30 when they play in Lincoln Park. With them on the program will be the Moana Hawaiian Entertainers who have been an exclusive KHJ feature during their stay in Southern California.
The Golden State Band program included a cornet solo by Irving G. Ulmer and harp duets by Vera Harrington and Fern Staben. An hour program of dance music by the Los Angeles Railway Orchestra followed the band concert program.
The KHJ children's hour brought the weekly program of the harmonica band from the City Playhouse Department. Peter Casino conducting, including a solo number by Trinidad Monte, George H. Staben, accompanist by Carlo Carlotto, accompanied by his mother, Marguerite Bringham, "Nightingale," in popular songs, Earle Inman, saxophone, and of LeRoy Parry, in solo numbers, and the weekly studio visit of Queen Titania and her band.

RED LINE'S FARE PLANS FIND FAVOR
Pacific Electric's Offer to Revise Glendale Rate Approved by Conferees
Trial of the Pacific Electric Railway's plan to abolish all commutation but thirty-five tickets on its Glendale line and reduce its one-way and round-trip fares was viewed with general approval yesterday at a meeting in the office of City Attorney Stephens of representatives of Los Angeles, Glendale, Long Beach, Covina, Santa Monica, Hollywood and South Pasadena, following rejection of the red line's general program, contained in a supplemental petition now before the State Railroad Commission, to eliminate commutation tickets on all routes.
This attitude was adopted when it became known that a test of the company's proposal advanced on the 8th inst., in supplemental application to the general fare increase asked previously of the State Railroad Commission.
Yesterday's meeting was called as a forerunner to the hearing today before State Railroad Commissioner Whitehead of the company's application for 7-cent fare and an increase approximating 30 per cent in interurban rates.
Those present were City Attorney Stephens and Deputy City Attorneys Ronnon and Bryan; City Attorneys Tom Board of Public Utilities, Fred F. Ball, special engineer employed by the city to investigate fare increase proposals by the Pacific Electric and the Los Angeles Railway Companies; Deputy City Attorney White of Long Beach, and A. G. Mott, chief engineer of the State Railroad Commission.
It was then proposed by the Pacific Electric in its amended application to cut one-way Glendale fares to 5 cents, as compared to 21 cents at present, and to decrease the thirty-five commutation rates to 12 cents as against .132 at present.
Those attending yesterday's session were not inclined to the belief of Pacific Electric officials that the decrease on one-way and round-trip tickets on other lines would stimulate business, for as it was pointed out by City Attorney Stephens, "no person would consider the saving of five cents on an eighty-cent round-trip ticket to Long Beach, for instance, as any special inducement to travel."
The meeting was marked by general unanimity of opinion.
KICKS WILL BE ESCAPED VIA ALIMONY
Agour Must Pay His Wife $200 a Month But He'll Not be Booted, Anyway
It will cost Lester F. Agour $200 a month, but at least he will have no occasion to complain of being kicked by his wife. Judge Bowron yesterday decided that Frances Lee Agour is entitled to that much alimony pending trial for the bitterly contested divorce suit filed against her by Agour, one of the heirs of the extensive Agour family land holdings in the San Fernando Valley.
Agour's complaint, drawn by Attorney Ben F. Gray, is replete with references to occasions on which his wife asserted that she was being kicked by him twenty times on the back of his head and another time she kicked him in the face, according to the complaint.
Two co-respondents are named in the pleadings and numerous dates are listed as the time of asserted misconduct on the part of the wife. Arthur Church has filed an answer to the complaint.
The other co-respondent is one Arthur Paxton.
Mrs. Agour, through Attorneys Guy Eddie and Paul Friedman, has been making a determined fight for custody of her two children, aged 10 and 12, and support pending trial. She asserted that Agour receives an income of $1000 a month, but Agour would not admit to more than $500.
The estate of which he is one of the heirs, includes the townsite of Calabasas, 10,000 acres of land and there and really in Los Angeles.
In addition to alimony of $200 a month, Agour was ordered to pay his wife's attorneys $4000 for defending her against his charges.

SAN QUENTIN TO GET 'BIG HUTCH'
Bunko Man Loses Last Fight Against Prison Return
New York Decision Victory for ex-Gov. Richardson
Notorious Swindler Now to be Brought from East
Everett A. (Big Hutch) Hutchings, notorious Los Angeles bunko operator, who took refuge in New York after his parole from San Quentin, where he was serving a term for grand larceny, in 1925 had been revoked, yesterday was ordered to return to California to complete his sentence under a decision rendered by the Court of Appeals at Albany.
The decision ended a strong extradition fight by "Big Hutch's" attorneys to prevent his return to San Quentin to complete a seven and one-half-years' term imposed on him in Los Angeles in 1921 after his conviction on bunko activities.
Hutchings was paroled after serving about three years of the term. Some time before the parole was granted ex-Gov. Richardson, who won an outstanding victory in yesterday's decision, warned George A. Van Smith, ex-president of the Parole Board, against freeing Hutchings without first making a careful investigation and conferring with Los Angeles authorities.
Then a storm of protest arose when news of the parole reached the city. Gov. Smith of New York granted the extradition, but Hutchings obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Supreme Court Justice Levy, and he was released from jail in New York where he had been arrested a short time before.
As the battle lines against extradition were more finely drawn, the appellate division, first department, ordered Justice Levy and Hutchings be rearrested. He appealed to the Court of Appeals, which upheld the parole board's decision, defeating him in the long extradition fight.
The Hutchings parole stirred up a similar presentation that hit in while charges and counter-charges were flying between officials in California. "Big Hutch" vanished in New York, however, that he was arrested. Then the fight began in earnest.
RICHARDSON'S REPLY
Ex-Gov. Richardson declared in a stinging statement that his investigation into the case had been blocked from several angles but that they revealed startling facts concerning several Los Angeles county officials, who were said to have had dealings with the bunko gang, headed by Hutchings.
The fact that at that time no criminal actions could be brought against the officials because of the statute of limitation.
The news that Hutchings had been released did not become public until after his arrival in New York. Los Angeles officials charged that he had been secretly liberated by the State Prison Board in 1925. He was sent to prison from Los Angeles April 19, 1922.
The Prison Board replied in a statement that it "acted in good faith in paroling 'Big Hutch' and would do the same thing again," according to the statement.
Richardson was "within his rights" in revoking the parole.
With the outspoken attitude of ex-Gov. Richardson, the California battle grounds were somewhat silenced and the scene of activities shifted to the New York courts where a bitter struggle ended yesterday in a complete victory for the former State ex-cutive.
BROKEN VICTIM DIES
Yesterday's action in the East is a foretaste of "Big Hutch's" second extradition from New York to California. In 1920 the long arm of the law reached across the continent, seized him and brought him back to face trial for swindling John B. Norris out of $51,000, an act that broke the Illinois farmer's heart and made Mrs. Norris a widow.
Under protection of the parole, before ex-Gov. Richardson took the helm of investigation, "Big Hutch" fled to New York presumably to be employed by a press association, but the then Governor charged that his investigation showed that the victim was living luxuriously in New York "without visible means of support."
When the news of the parole broke without warning, ex-Gov. Richardson launched an investigation, severely rebuked the State Parole Board and openly charged that the victim was living luxuriously in New York "without visible means of support."
Davis said:
"Well, we put him in prison, somebody else let him out and it makes no difference to us what they do with him."

CITY PLANS TO Tame Colorado Given Praise
That the people of Los Angeles, under the leadership of Chief Engineer Mulholland of the Municipal Water Bureau, are launching the largest domestic water project ever undertaken by any municipality, is the declaration made by Edgar Lloyd Hamilton, in an article published in the April number of the American Engineer and Architect.
Under the title of "Transporting a River Over Mountains," Mr. Hamilton tells of Los Angeles' plans and preliminary work on the Colorado River Aqueduct.
In commenting on the magnitude of the project, he says that the water and under mountains, for the domestic use of its people. The project, from an engineering standpoint, is second only to the Panama Canal. Its completion will require from seven to nine years, and its cost will be about $175,000,000, while the water which it will deliver through its make-like conduits, added to the city's present supply, will take care of the needs of at least 10,000,000 people.

Blackening Eyes of Woman Laid to Beach Man
William J. Tiley, 36 years of age, an oil driller of 381 Magnolia avenue, Long Beach, was lodged in the City Jail yesterday after his arrest by Long Beach police, charged with suspicion of assault to commit murder.
According to Detective Lieutenants Hickey and Condafer, Mrs. Gertrude McDavid of 611 South Burlington avenue, accuses Tiley of striking her Monday night, blacking both her eyes when he found her about to take dinner with another man.
Tiley declares, however, according to the officers, Mrs. McDavid lured him to her apartment by a ruse, locked him in and threatened to blind him with acid, and that he was compelled to use force to protect himself from an engineering standpoint, is second only to the Panama Canal. Its completion will require from seven to nine years, and its cost will be about $175,000,000, while the water which it will deliver through its make-like conduits, added to the city's present supply, will take care of the needs of at least 10,000,000 people.

LeRoy Armstrong, one of the foremost authorities in research work in motion pictures, died of apoplexy yesterday at his home, 12243 Hollywood street, Lankershim. He was 73 years of age.

Until a year ago, he was forced to retire from active work by illness. Mr. Armstrong was head of the research department and library at Universal City.

His position here had held for nearly ten years. Prior to that, he had been with the Universal forces.

Mr. Armstrong had been a magazine contributor of prominence, and was the author of many books, including a text-book on Shakespeare. He was known from coast to coast in newspaper and literary circles.

Mr. Armstrong was born in Plymouth, Ind., May 19, 1854. After learning the printer's trade, he brought the Ladslog (Ind.) Press, after going to Chicago where he became a special writer on the old Herald-Examiner, and then to Los Angeles. He was a contributor of a newspaper at LaPuy, Tex., and then to San Francisco. His activities to Salt Lake City, where for years he edited the Herald-Republic.

Coming to the Coast, he became a special contributor to The Times, the Pacific Coast Banker, and to eastern magazines, finally going into motion pictures.

He was a pioneer in the development of research work for motion pictures, and built an elaborate department at Universal.

Beside the widow, Mr. Armstrong leaves the following children: Bette Armstrong, Kansas City, Mo.; Wilson, East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. E. J. Hamberlin, Burlingame, Cal.; Paul Armstrong, Federal Examiner of National Bank, San Francisco; Burl Armstrong, former newspaper man of Los Angeles; Mrs. Deane Popovich of Los Angeles, formerly superintendent of the Methodist Hospital.

He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Charlotte Middleton of Denver and a brother, Lucius Armstrong, at Cassville, Mich.

Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

KILLING LAID TO QUARREL OVER FAMILIES

Neighborhood Row Leads to Dual Murder, Declare Witnesses in Sprain Trial

How a neighborhood quarrel of more than two years finally resulted in the double murder of Homer E. Sprain and his wife, Mildred, was laid yesterday by witnesses in the trial of John Sprain, accused of the double murder and now on trial before a jury in Superior Judge Edwards' court.

Details of a hair-pulling match between Mrs. Bessie Hanes and Mrs. Sprain related to the jury by Mr. Tillip Rippon and her husband, neighbors. Mrs. Rippon stated that she saw Mrs. Hanes strike Sprain and that Sprain then returned to his home. Later, said the witness, Mrs. Hanes crossed the street to the Hanes home and asked Mrs. Hanes to come home and settle the matter.

The result, Mrs. Rippon stated, was a hair-pulling melee. Her husband told substantially the same version.

Sprain is accused of slaying Mrs. Hanes just after Bessie Hanes is said to have said to the defendant, "Go to California, but don't dress up in your Sunday clothes."

The case is being prosecuted by Dist. Atty. Pricke and Egan. It will be continued today.

Mission Play Advertised by Espee Railway

The Mission Play at San Gabriel is called to the attention of thousands of travelers in the West by a Southwest through the medium of the dining-car menus issued by Southern Pacific Company.

Thirty thousand specially illustrated menus depicting a procession of the Mission Play cast in front of the old San Gabriel Mission in California, have been distributed on the company's limited trains plying between Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles and other Pacific Coast points.

Under the photograph of the mission and the players is the following description:

Perpetuation of John Steven Mcarty's Mission Play, the romance historical portrayal of the early days in California, has been aided with the housing of the page-drama in its permanent home at San Gabriel near Los Angeles and The Mission Play is to California much of an institution as the Mission Play produced at Oberammergau in Europe, and legends that the play has been shown publishes it as an annual event. It is the oldest and the most popular play in the history of California.

The play for this year began August 8, to continue for twenty days. From this date, the production in the Mission Play is to be used in rehabilitating and permanently rebuilding old California landmarks.

A number of action as well as atspheric scenes for the early por-

Married to Andrade in Mexico She Testifies;
Appears in Wife's Suit
Seeking to refute the charges against her in the contested separation suit of Helen Louise
Andrade against Alfred Francis
Andrade, millionaire property owner of California and Mexico, Judith Lane
Lavender, named correspondent in the case, appeared last yesterday in Judge Valentine's court as a witness.
Previous reports that Miss Lavender had married Andrade in Mexico after Andrade was said to have obtained a Yucatan divorce, were confirmed by the witness in her opening testimony. She gave her name as Judith Lane Lavender and stated she was married to Andrade in Mexico.
Andrade's asserted Yucatan divorce has not been given recognition in the local courts.
In her petition for separate maintenance,
Andrade accused Alfred of undue influence and fraud in connection with the divorce. She claimed that Andrade had obtained a divorce from his first wife, Helen Louise Andrade, in Mexico, and that she, Judith Lane
Lavender, had married him in Mexico
after he had obtained the divorce.
The case will be resumed this morning.

Intrepid Italian Airman Reaches United States on Long Journey

Establishing a New Speed Record Between Havana and New Orleans, Commander Francesco De Pinedo, the Italian aviator, yesterday brought his big plane down on the bosom of the Mississippi at the Louisiana city, thereby touching the third of the four continents he plans to visit. De Pinedo's air trip is one of the most sensational ever attempted. Composite photo shows aviator and plane. (P. & A. photo.)

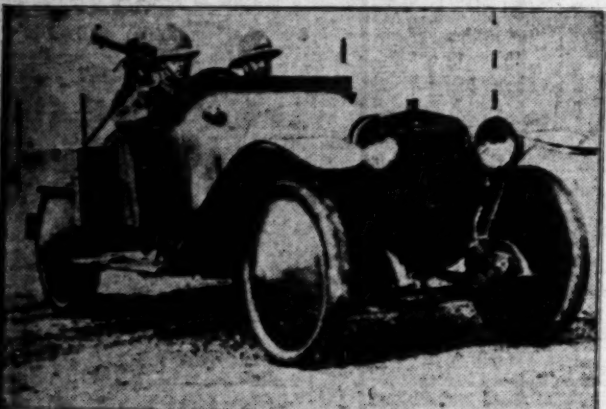

The Sullen and Powerful Cinnamon Bear which a few days ago clawed and nearly killed a youth who ventured too close to the bars while feeding her, is shown above in her cage at Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, where near-tragedy occurred. (P. & A. photo.)

The President's Two New Pets, a pair of lion cubs presented to him by the city of Johannesburg, South Africa, are pictured above. It is not believed that they will have the run of the White House as some of the other pets of the Coolidges. (P. & A. photo.)

An Important Role in Defense of International Settlement in Shanghai has been assigned to the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, a business men's organization of 1500 members. Machine gunners of the corps, with mounted gun, shown, above, on patrol. (Acme.)

American Girl Leads the World in beauty, vivacity and personality, the much sought after Baron Alphonse Gecmen Wallek of Vienna, admitted when he arrived at San Francisco on round-world tour. Here is Baron with Mrs. Herbert Jones, a fellow-passenger. (P. & A. photo.)

A Chinese Outbreak on This Side of the Pacific Ocean is being dealt with by New York police, who are active in putting down the recent renewal of tong activities which have claimed a number of lives. The officer is searching baggage of Chinese in Chinese quarter.

Calories Are of Considerable Interest to Lotus, the huge hippopotamus with the Al G. Barnes Circus which opens here next week. However, Lotus is not interested in reducing; she desires to keep her weight up, strange as it may seem. Here she is eating "by scale."

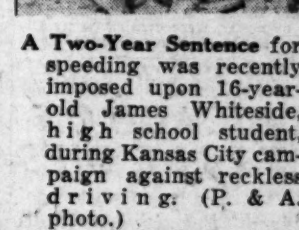

The Highest Honor an Egyptian king may bestow was recently granted Sir Ian Malcolm during International Navigation Congress at Cairo. (Acme.)

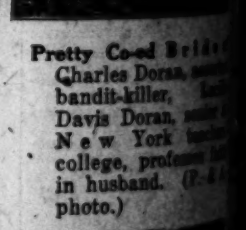

Latest Member of Hollywood Cinema Colony is John Boles, Gloria Swanson's leading man, who arrived here Monday to begin work. Photo shows Boles (on car steps) being welcomed by Gloria and Director Albert Parker, who will direct forthcoming pictures.

A Leading Role in the emancipation of Turkish women is being taken by Princess Fethie, grand-daughter of the late Sultan Abdul Hamid. (Acme.)

A Two-Year Sentence for speeding was recently imposed upon 16-year-old James Whiteside, high school student, during Kansas City campaign against reckless driving. (P. & A. photo.)
